

Fact Sheet: Medicare and Home Health Care

Medicare pays the full cost of medically necessary home health visits by a Medicare-approved home health agency. A home health agency is a public or private agency that provides skilled nursing care, physical therapy, speech therapy and other therapeutic services to treat an illness or injury. A nurse provides skilled nursing services on an intermittent or part-time basis, not fulltime. A referral from the doctor is required to begin home health care services.

Covered home health care services include:

- Part-time or intermittent skilled nursing care
- Part-time or intermittent home health aide services
- Physical therapy, speech-language therapy, occupational therapy
- Medicare social services
- Medical supplies (durable medical equipment has a twenty percent coinsurance that you pay.) You have to pay twenty percent of the approved amount for durable medical equipment such as wheelchairs and hospital beds provided under a plan-of-care set up and reviewed periodically by a doctor.

To qualify for coverage, you must:

- Need intermittent skilled nursing care, physical therapy, speech therapy, or occupational therapy.
- Be confined to your home.
- Be under a doctor's care.

Gaps in Home Health Coverage

Medicare home health does not cover:

- Full-time nursing care
- Meals delivered to your home
- Twenty percent of the Medicare-approved amount for durable medical equipment, plus charges in excess of the approved amount on unassigned claims.
- Homemaker services that are primarily to assist you in meeting personal care or housekeeping needs
